Final Plat Access and Design Criteria:

Final plats are required to follow approved preliminary plats, and are therefore submitted in accordance with a previously approved design. Final plat issues include, but are not limited to, the items below:

- Plat boundaries: Final plats represent a portion (phase) or the whole area of a previously approved preliminary plat (PP). The final plat must fall within the area of a previously approved preliminary plat. The final plat cannot add additional area not previously identified in the preliminary. All property owners within the depicted plat boundary must be signatories on the plat application [SO, Sec. 31-42 (c)].
- Consistency with Preliminary Plat: Final plats must match the approved preliminary on file. If the subdivision design has been altered in any way (circulation, access, number of lots) the applicant must first submit a preliminary plat revision for review prior to turning in a final plat application. [SO, Sec. 31-42 (c)].
- Two points of ingress/egress: Subdivisions consisting of more than 30 single family units or more than 100 multifamily units cannot be recorded without two points of ingress/egress that are fully constructed and accepted by the city. For preliminary plats with multiple phases, each phase of the development must meet the two points of access requirement. [SO, Sec. 31-101 (c)]
- Match lines: Final Plats with multiple sheets must utilize match lines that follow the lot and block boundary. Do not split lots or show the same recorded lot on multiple pages. Instead, gray out duplicates and ensure that each recorded lot falls fully on one page.
- Right-of-Way: Ensure required dedications to adjacent right-of-way, including corner clips, are shown on the plat. Required street sizing for use types may be found in the Master Thoroughfare Plan. The minimum width for an urban local cross section is 50 feet. [SO, Sec. 31-106]
- Vacations: If a proposed development is incorporating unconstructed ROW (road or alley) a vacation application for this ROW must be approved by City Council and the ordinance number issued prior to plat recordation.
- Easements: Any easements offsite easements required for a proposed development must be filed by separate instrument prior to plat submission, and that recording information must be reflected on the plat face. Easements within the boundary of the project can be labeled as "dedicated by this plat." If all or portion of an existing easement is to be abandoned, label as "abandoned by this plat." For offsite easements or other easements by separate instrument, contact this office for standard easement language and process for filling.

REPLAT/ MINOR PLAT (FS) CHECKLIST

Complete Application

A check for application completeness will be made with the applicant prior to plat filing. A plat application will not be considered filed pursuant to HB 3167 until all fees have been submitted, all requirements of zoning and the Subdivision Ordinance are satisfied, and all required documents have been accepted. Required documents include any and all necessary studies, plans, and supporting information and these must be accepted (approved) by the reviewing department. Plat applications that do not meet these requirements will be rejected.

Once a plat meets the requirements to be considered filed, the application will be placed on the Development Review Committee agenda and the Plan Commission agenda for consideration under the time requirements set out in HB 3167. A decision for approval or denial must be made within 30 days from the submittal of the application. A completed checklist must be submitted with each application.

- Application Fee: $425 plus $25/per lot. Payment of application fee by check or credit card.

Minor Plat/Replat Access and Design Criteria:

The Subdivision Ordinance (SO) describes access and design criteria to which the plat must conform. Submissions that are not consistent with the Subdivision Ordinance will require revisions or must request a waiver. If a waiver request is not submitted, the application will be recommended for denial. Common design issues include, but are not limited to, the items below:

- Plat boundaries: Include all contiguous unplatted property in common ownership within the plat boundary. Do not leave remainder portions of the original unplatted tract. If the application is a replat, ensure that no remainder or partial lots are being created by the proposed plat. [SO, Sec. 31-41 (a)]. All property owners of land within the depicted plat boundary must be signatories on the plat application.
- Zoning: Plats that are in conflict with their underlying zoning cannot be processed. Applicants seeking a zoning change or variance from zoning must request the change from the appropriate Board or Commission prior to plat submission. If zoning is a Planned Development (PD) the applicant must provide the approved site plan. If property is in a form based code area (MU/UR/H, design overlays) applicants should coordinate their proposed design with the appropriate commission and board (JDC, DDRB).
- Lot Access: Ensure all lots have direct paved access to a public or private street [SO, Sec. 31-81 (a) (1)]. Lots zoned commercial or industrial may take their sole access from a Public Access Easement instead if the property is platted with a minimum of 100-feet of frontage on the public access easement (PAE). [SO, Sec. 31-81 (i)]
- Public Access Easements: [SO, Sec. 31-106 (i)] Public access easements must be constructed to City street standards and are a minimum of 24-feet in width for commercial uses and 80-feet in width for industrial uses [SO, Sec. 31-81 (i)]. Public access easements must not terminate within the lot as a cul-de-sac (dead-end). [SO, Sec. 31-106 (e) (1)]
- Residential Access and Lot Standards: Ensure residential lots do not have their primary frontage on an arterial or collector and do not have double-frontage on two local streets [SO, Sec. 31-103 (b)]. Residential subdivisions must have a minimum of two points of access for more than 30 single family units, or more than 100 multifamily units. [SO, Sec. 31-101 (c)].
- Residential Driveway Access Limitation: Proposed lots which are less than 50-feet in width should provide driveway access by rear entry access from the abutting rear alley. [SO, Sec 31-106 (13)]
- Two points of ingress/egress: Final short plats consisting of more than 100 multifamily units cannot be recorded without two points of ingress/egress to a public street [SO, Sec. 31-101 (c) (1)] that are fully constructed and accepted by the city.
- Access Management: If a proposed lot is taking its sole access from a Master Thoroughfare road or a Texas Department of Transportation road, provide proof of approval of driveway locations from the relevant agency. Limited driveway spacing on thoroughfares may require properties to be served by public access easements. If access requires crossing a private utility easement, a Utility Access Agreement signed by affected parties is required.
- Right-of-Way Dedication: Required dedications to adjacent rights-of-way must be shown on the plat. Required street sizing for use types may be found in the Master Thoroughfare Plan. The minimum width for an urban local cross section is 50-feet [SO, Sec. 31-106] and 60-feet in the ETJ.

- Alley Standards: Alleys may not dead-end and must be sized appropriately for adjacent uses: 16-foot minimum for residential, 20-foot minimum for commercial and industrial uses. [SO, Sec. 31-106 (c) (9)]
- ROW Corner Clip: A triangular right of way dedication measuring 10-feet by 10-feet, measured at the property line, is required on corner lots at the intersection of two streets in which there are no traffic signals or all-way stop signs (label: "dedicated by this plat"); No dedication is required at all-way stops and signalized intersections. [SO, Sec. 31-106 (c) (9)] Public Open Space Easements (P.O.S.E.) are required at the intersection of two easements. [SO, Sec. 31-104 (c)].
- Vacations: If a proposed development is incorporating unconstructed ROW (road or alley), a vacation application for this ROW must be approved by City Council and the ordinance number issued prior to plat recordation.
- Easements: Easements within the boundary of the project should be labeled as "dedicated by this plat." Any plat easements or offsite easement recording information must be shown. If all or portion of an existing easement is to be abandoned, label as "abandoned by this plat." Easements may be filed by separate instrument, however all recording must be completed prior to plat submission. Contact this office for standard easement language and process for filling.
- Street extension and continuation: Urban local streets shall be extended to the subdivision boundary to connect with adjoining streets or, where no adjacent streets are available for such connection, to allow for the future connection with adjoining un-platted property. [SO, Sec. 31-106 (a) (7)]
